

BBC Antiques Road Show 11th June 2023

Some welcome publicity for the society!

From your phone calls and e-mails I know many members saw this edition of the popular BBC Antiques Road Show on Sunday evening of the 11th June.

It featured a beautiful bead headdress, origin unknown to me, presented to Commodore Norbury by King Cetshwayo sometime after the end of the war. The head dress has remained with the Norbury family who submitted it to the Road Show team. Coincidentally, the AZWHS already held certain artefacts from Norbury and were already aware of his high status role in the war.

I based my observations and advice to the BBC on documents held by the society although I could find no record of King Cetshwayo ever meeting Norbury.
